Monday Memo – November 7, 2016

Presentations

- Department faculty made the following presentations at the recent American Public Health Association (APHA) meetings in Denver:

  - Suzanne Cashman and Monica Lowell, with Worcester Department of Public Health colleagues presented “More Than Two is Not a Crowd: Developing an Academic Health Collaborative with Multiple Universities and a Clinical System.”

  - Two third year students, Trupti Ingle and Allison Earon, with Suzanne Cashman and Monica Lowell, presented a poster entitled: “Collaborating to Improve Outcomes: An interprofessional student approach to hot spotting.”

- At the FMEC conference, highlighted in last week’s Monday Memo, we note in a correction that Stephanie Cater-Henry stepped in for Tina Runyan in the presentation about faculty wellness.

Publications

WELLNESS MOMENTS FOR THE MONDAY MEMO

"The greatest weapon against stress is our ability to choose one thought over another" - William James