

Monday Memo – January 19, 2015

Hugh Silk was the Visiting Professor at the Virginia Tech Carillion School of Medicine from January 8-9, where he gave an interactive case presentation on Geriatric Oral Health and the Delta Dental Lecture entitled Medical-Dental Collaboration: Where Have We Come From? Where Are We? Where Are We Going? Hugh also participated in the Massachusetts Medical Society/Massachusetts Dental Society's New England Global Health Conference for Medical Students and Residents in Waltham, MA on January 11. He collaborated with local dentists from Harvard on an interactive workshop. His presentation was: Integrated Care for Health in a Global Setting.

Awards and Recognition

- Stephanie Carter-Henry was selected as one of seven recipients of the 2015 STFM New Faculty Scholar's Award. The award is a recognition of her outstanding leadership potential and is designed to be a catalyst for developing future leaders in STFM and other areas of academic medicine.

Faculty Appointments

- Congratulations to the following faculty with recently completed academic appointments:

Janice Connor, MS was recently appointed as an Instructor in the Department. Ms. Connor completed her Masters degree in Regulatory Affairs & Health Policy at Massachusetts College of Pharmacy in 2003 and is currently the Director of Clinical Programs, Urology and Women's Health, at Boston Scientific in Marlboro. For over 20 years she has gained expertise in the design and execution of medical technology research, and currently leads a team of over a dozen employees in this area, and her involvement will be extremely valuable to us in our Preventive Medicine Residency Program. Ms. Connor will be integral in the planning and development of a medical technology module for the preventive medicine residents which will include various presentations and an onsite field trip experience. Ms. Connor is also functioning as a career advisor for our preventive medicine residents in addition to interested MPH students
