Awards & Recognition

- Congratulations to Stephanie Carter-Henry, who has been selected to receive the 2018 “Mid-Career Faculty Achievement Award” from the Family Medicine Education Consortium. The award will be given at the annual FMEC meeting in Rye, NY on November 10. She will be joining Jennifer Bradford, who is receiving the organization’s “Emerging Leader” Award.

- Congratulations to Warren Ferguson, who’s creative writing submission, Third Time the Charm or Loser, was awarded 2nd place for the Prose category by a panel of reviewers for our Creative Writing Competition. This award will be given out during the 2018 Family Medicine Education Consortium (FMEC) Annual Meeting November 9th – 11th at the Hilton Westchester Hotel in Rye Brook, New York on Saturday morning prior to the Plenary presentation.

- As part of Channel 5’s Chronicle special entitled, “Dying to Deliver,” Suzanne Cashman was interviewed about the work she and her colleagues do in the Determinants of Health course to expose first year medical students to the issue of implicit bias.

- The 9th Annual Peter H. Levine Symposium was held on Thursday, September 6th. Celebrating improvements in quality, safety, and the patient experience included Rola Saab (from the FHCW) completing her Quality Scholars green belt project on "Improving Cervical Cancer Screening Rates". Rola was mentored by Dennis Dimitri. Judy Savageau also served as a mentor again this year working with one of the Hospital Medicine physicians: Oliver Marasigan (“Improving Delirium Recognition in Geriatric Inpatients”).

Save the Date for the Department’s Annual Faculty Retreat: Friday, October 26, 2018

Time to Register:  https://www.surveymonkey.com/r/FMCHRetreat