At the risk of overdoing the theme of oral health, I am sharing with you this week a few photo images from UMMS med and GSN students who did the population oral health clerkship last October.

Within the attachment are 6 images and matching commentary that I think pose a rich reflection on how the mouth affects our community and who is trying to address this important issue. Photos can be such a powerful means to make a point about health equity and lack of equity! The students involved were Brittany Dacier, Nick Hebda, Chris DiTullio, Danielle Stamer, Olivia Slezik, and Jeff Robichaud. See what you think. Enjoy.
